Design Registration has been granted exclusively to Snorkel Australia (the Importer) specifically for the machine model stated on the Certificate of Design Registration overleaf. Registration was granted on the basis of independent verification of compliance of the design of this model with the requirements of Australian Standard AS1418.10 - whichever published version of AS1418.10 prevailed at the time this model was originally imported.

This Certificate of Design Registration is provided by Snorkel Australia to the owner of this model machine for the purpose of compliance with the “Duties of Importers” requirements in individual Australian State & Territory Work Health & Safety Regulations. The Registration Number applies only to examples of this model that were originally imported and sold by Snorkel Australia; it does not apply to any examples of this model that were privately imported and for which AS1418.10 compliance cannot be verified. This Certificate and/or Design Registration Number may not be transferred to any other party without the express written permission of Snorkel Australia.

Machines imported and sold by Snorkel Australia that have since been modified without the written consent of Snorkel Australia, may no longer comply with the requirements of the Australian Standard this particular Design Registration is based on the verification of. In such instances this Design Registration Number cannot be applied, and the owner of the machine assumes full product liability and responsibility for verification of current Australian Standards compliance, and Design Registration for the modified design.
